SOCIAL FALLACIES.

We commit the still greater error of plunging into ice water every morning, then scrub all the skin off with a horse-hair brush or a coarse towel; sit down to breakfast of oatmeal sawdust; dine off a table-spoonful of wheat and two berries, and make a supper on catnip tea, then be put through a Russian bath of five hundred degrees; sleep under an open window when the thermometer is at zero; wear long hair; dress the women in pantaloons; make all our property over to them, then sit down in the kitchen corner and nurse the baby, and when it is asleep wash up the tea things, and go to bed at nine o'clock to be "out of the way." What will become of us men? Surely we have fallen on evil times. A better and truer mode of life is to have plenty of everything that is good to eat and drink, which imparts nourishment and strength, and as much of it as you want. The idea of getting up from the table hungry is unnatural and absurd and hurtful—quite as much so as getting up in the morning before your sleep is out, on the mischievous principle that "early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

Early rising, in civilized society, always tends to shorten life. Early rising of itself never did any good. Many a farmer's boy has been an invalid for life by being made to get up at daylight, before his sleep was out. Many a young girl has been stunted in body and mind and constitution by being made to get up before the system has had its full rest. All who are growing, all who work hard, and all weakly persons should not get up until they feel as if they would be more comfortable to get up than to remain in bed; that is the only true measure of sufficiency of rest and sleep. Any one who gets up in the morning feeling as if he "would give anything in the world" to remain in bed a while longer does violence to his own nature, and will always suffer from it—not immediately, it may be, but certainly in later years, by the cumulative ill effects of the most unwise practice. In any given case, the person who gets up in the morning before he is fully rested will lack just that much of the energy requisite for the day's pursuit.

As a people, we do not get enough sleep, we do not get enough rest, we will not take time for these things; hence our nervousness, our instability, our hasty temper, and the premature giving out of the stamina of life. Half of us are old at three-score, the very time a man ought to be in his mental, moral, and physical prime. Half of our wives, especially in the farming districts, die long before their time, because they do not get rest and sleep proportioned to their labor. Nine times out of ten, it would be better for all parties if the farmer should get up and light the fires and prepare breakfast for his wife, she coming directly from her toilet to the breakfast table, because it almost always happens that she has to remain up to set things right long after the husband has gone to bed, when really he has nothing to do after supper but to go to bed. This is a monstrously cruel imposition on wives and mothers.—[Hall's Journal of Health.

AFTER RUTA BAGAS.—"C. A. C.," Arlington, Mass., writes that he has raised three hundred bushels of ruat-bagas upon half an acre. The best crop that can follow these roots is rye or wheat, with grass and clover. The best rotation when roots are raised is corn, oats, followed by turnips the same season, or ruta-bagas or mangels the next season, and finally wheat or rye with grass. But several hundred bushels of roots cannot be taken off from an acre of ground, without exhausting the soil; and the reason that your crops have failed after the ruta-bagas is probably for want of the needed fertilizer. Two hundred and fifty pounds of fine bone-dust or of superphosphate, with a few loads of manure, might have told a different tale.

DR. SCHENCK'S
Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution.

Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a somewhat dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which of course, must make a cure impossible.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium: It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, and at the Quincy House, Boston, on the following Wednesdays, June 10th and 24th, July 8th and 22d, and August 5th and 19th. je6-eod

THE DAY.

The regatta was postponed yesterday and the crew and their friends were sentenced to twenty four hours more on the anxious seat. The betting rather favors Yale. We entirely disapprove of betting, but it is convenient to get some reliable expression of the opinions of experts. Wesleyan University is represented by a powerful crew and Harvard is not hopeless. All the crews row a slow stroke except Dartmouth's whose members seem to think they can row forty eight or fifty strokes a minute and keep it up. It is to be hoped that this race will not be marred as the race last year was by a foul and a disputed victory.

We are constantly assured by the New York and Brooklyn papers that the committee which is investigating the difficulty between Plymouth pulpit and the Golden Age preserves a silence rivaled only by the tomb to which the melancholy Mr. Toots occasionally referred and yet the same papers gives us extensive accounts of the testimony and the proceedings of the committee which we are supposed "leaked out," the reporter of the particular paper publishing the information being the only person present when the leak occurred. So far as we can discover the committee minds its own business and leaks are not extensive nor frequent, but a vigorous effort is going on to influence 'public' opinion. The friends, or pretended friends, of one of the parties report that overtures for a compromise are made by friends of the other party and the charge is denied and thrown back. The reliability of gossip is illustrated by the beautiful yarn about Mr. Redpath who was positively declared to be cooking up a compromise between the parties. He declares that in his purely social interview with his personal friend, Mr. Tilton, the scandal was not referred to and his only advice to the accuser was to take chops with his coffee. But perhaps chops and coffee mean as much as chops and tomato sauce.

A woman's movement in England is mentioned in the report of the friendly societies commission which differs in some particulars from the woman's movement in Ohio. This is the Female Secret Insurance Society. If it insured females against a proneness to reveal secrets it might check gossiping and bless society, but there is reason to fear that it does precisely the reverse. It numbers twenty lodges, none of which are in a flourishing condition. The society is too feeble to do anything for the sick and its sole mission appears to be the burial of the dead. No, not its sole mission, for the lodges have some of the characteristics of bacchanalian clubs, and it is possible that the members maintain their connection with the society more for the sake of the spirits to be put into the body than for the sake of the care the body receives after the spirit has left it. Each month the women meet in their lodges and two pence a member is spent in liquor. Four cents will buy more alcohol in England than it will in the United States and drunkenness occasionally gives variety to the meetings. At the quarterly meetings each delegate receives sixpence worth of liquor. A balance sheet of this "friendly society" shows an expenditure for liquor of 19s. 3d., for contribution cards of 5d. and for secretary's salary of 5s. There were no charitable disbursements.

USEFUL INFORMATION.

Some of our society papers announce engagements and considering the fragile character of those solemn compacts it would be carrying the matter only a little way farther to announce that "Miss B. is receiving delicate attentions from Mr. M. and an engagement is contemplated." If a lady had four or five admirers all of whom were too bashful to come to the point, it might be worth her while to procure such an announcement as the foregoing. It would probably reduce the number of her suitors by one and stimulate the others into making definite offers. It is a little singular that marringes, which everybody knows about, are published while engagements, which everybody would like to know about, are too often carefully concealed. It is not mere curiosity, but an honest desire for information that will save much wear and tear of the affections that makes Mr. X wish to know if Miss Y is engaged and vice versa. We cannot therefore commend too highly the practice of some German papers of publishing, not engagements only, but the breaking of the engagements. These latter may be rather mortifying to one of the two principal parties, but they are very interesting and useful to the friends of the parties. A very singular notification of this sort recently appeared in the Dresdener Journal, as follows: "With respect to the announcement by which I at the end of last November, gave notice of my being engaged to the Dowager Baroness Zoe von Kotzebue, I am now obliged to state that this relationship has, at her desire, and to my great regret been broken off, because she did not find in my deportment that gravity which she had a right to expect.—Count Laukner." Such announcements as this should be make in American papers. The information that the Dowager Baroness Zoe was again fancy free was probably hailed with great pleasure by the ladies who wanted Count Luckner in spite of his levity and by the gentlemen who longed to sing

"Zoe mou sas agapo"

to the attractive and presumably rich widow. If this custom only prevailed in this country we might expect to see paragraphs like the following in our society papers:—"Mr. Amandus Smith is obliged to perform the painful duty of announcing that his engagement to Miss Amanda Jones is broken off at her desire and to his inconsolable grief because she found he was not possessed of that wealth which his elegant presents to her indicated."

The eighth annual convention of the institutions of the deaf and dumb of America organized at Belleville, Ont., Wednesday with the Rev. W. Turner of Connecticut, president. Many places in Canada and nearly every state in the Union are represented.

The Maine Central woodshed at Crowley's was entirely destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon, together with about 200 cords of wood. It caught probably from sparks from a down passenger train. Assistance was received from the Lewiston fire department and also from Lisbon. Loss about $1500 or $2000.

The soldier's monument in Worcester was dedicated Wednesday. Business in the handsomely-decorated city was entirely suspended, and the day was devoted to honoring the men whose memory the monument is intended to perpetrate. There was a very large procession of military and civil bodies, an oration by ex-Governor Bullock, an address defending the war by Major-General Devens, and the usual formalities attending the dedication and transfer of a monument from a committee to the representatives of the people.

The Jardin d'Acclimatization of Paris has just received from Sumatra a young elephant, born as recently as the 7th October last. This is the first time that an animal of the kind has been imported at so early an age. Its hight above the shoulder is forty-two inches, or about that of a small donkey. It is very tame and playful, and gives promise of great intelligence. What was most curious, however, was the welcome given to it by Romeo and Juliette, the two well-known elephants of the gardens, a present from the king of Italy, and which both manifested great affection for the new comer.

The cotton planters' report to the department of agriculture, in accordance with the conditional promise of June, shows an increase in the condition of the plant in every state. The percentages of the average condition are higher than in June by the following figures: 3 in Louisiana, 4 in Arkansas, 6 in Florida, 7 in South Carolina, 9 in Mississippi, 18 in Alabama, 11 in Georgia, 12 in Tennessee and Texas, and 13 in North Carolina. Texas and North Carolina return a condition above the average. The following are the state averages: North Carolina, 102; South Carolina, 88; Georgia, 91; Florida, 96; Alabama, 92; Mississippi, 87; Louisiana, 73; Texas, 102; Arkansas, 94; and Tennessee, 91.

About six thousand persons assembled at Philadelphia Wednesday to witness the game between the Boston and Athletic clubs. The weather was fine though warm. The betting was nearly even, with slight odds on the Bostons. The game was one of the finest of the season, and was interesting and exciting throughout. A band of music was in attendance, which between the innings, enlivened the crowd with excellent selections. In the fifth inning, by terrific batting, the Athletics made six runs, two of which were earned. In the fifth inning the Bostons secure three runs, one of which was earned. The Athletics failed to score in any other inning. In the last inning Harry Wright got an unearned run. The Bostons are credited with five errors and the Athletics with seven. The Bostons made nine base hits, with a total of eleven, and the Athletics eleven, with a total of fourteen. The umpiring was very satisfactory. The Athletics won through superior batting.

The democratic state convention assembled at the Academy of Music, Indianapolis, Wednesday morning and was called to order by Hon J. L. McDonald, chairman of the state committee. Every county reported full delegations. Gov. T. A. Hendricks was chosen president. The committee on resolutions reported a platform. The resolutions arraign the Republican party for corruption and general inefficiency, and declare in favor of a strict construction of the constitution and a tariff for revenue. They favor the redemption of the five-twenty bonds in greenbacks; the repeal of the national banking laws and the substitution of greenbacks; a return to specie payments as soon as the business interests of the country will permit. They oppose the Baxter temperance bill and favor a license law; favor retrenchment and reform and economy in the management of the state and federal governments; denounce the practice of officers using public money as their own; oppose land grabs and the loan of the public credit to railroads; favor the abolition of the office of county superintendent of public schools, and favor the equalization of bounties to soldiers. After the adoption of the resolutions the convention proceeded to nominate candidates for state offices. For secretary of state, J. E. Neff, of Randolph county, was chosen on the second ballot.

THE AMERICAN JIM FISK AND THE ENGLISH ONE.

Englishmen are always ready, when a Fisk or a Tweed is carrying everything before him on the other side of the Atlantic, to console themselves with the reflection that, though we may be bad enough in our own way, at least such things could not happen here. It may be true that the frank and brutal scoundrelism of a Fisk would hardly be reproduced in our tamer and more straitened society, yet the same poison may be found working under somewhat modified conditions. The secret of Fisk's success lay not merely in his impudence and boldness as the leader of great swindles, but in the support he received from men who, having reputations at stake, could not engage openly in such enterprises, but were quite willing to coöperate under safe cover. The convenience of an agent of this kind partly explains the good-natured view which is taken of his acts. It may be doubted whether even in London a floater of bubble companies, no matter how disreputable his antecedents, how notorious his practices, need anticipate much difficulty in finding a backing of respectable people, if he can only show that he has skill and courage; and that there is something to be made by his help. His backers might be shy of mixing themselves up with him personally, but they would be quite ready to follow in his wake, and accept what plunder came their way. And if he were discreet, a speculator of this kind might even push his influence much further. Fisk's scandalous habits and contempt for appearances naturally cut him off from decent society, and in this country would no doubt have proved an insurmountable obstacle to his progress. An English Fisk would know the advantage of cultivating the proprieties, of affecting the patronage of art and literature, of advertising his public spirit. His name, on one pretext or another, would be constantly in the newspapers. He would become a public character, seek a pedestal in Parliament, and indulge in even higher aspirations. His success might excite jealousy, but no matter what men might say of him among themselves, he would be too useful, he would have too many indirect and secret confederates in his speculations, to fear exposure.—[Saturday Review.

—The Redwood band play in Touro park this evening.

—A staging is being erected the entire length of St. Mary's steeple.

—The Rev. C. T. Brooks has arrived home much improved in health.

—The Rev. E. F. Jones, formerly pastor of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal church, has been in town for a few days.

—The Newport band gave their semi-weekly concert last evening in Equality park.

A large number of persons from this city took the eleven o'clock boat for Rocky Point today to attend the First R. I. D. M. re-union at that place.

—George F. Swain of Cambridge, Mass., has sold to Albert J. Bamford of Boston. 68845 feet of land with buildings on the south east corner of Harrison avenue and King street for $1 and other considerations.

—Charles Miller of the schooner Nellie Doe, now at Finch, Engs & Co's wharf, fell this morning while going down the cabin stairs and had his arm dislocated. He was taken to the hospital for treatment by officer Joseph Beaumont.

—A mathematical friend has been making calculations in compound interest and informs us that the $5 bill spoken of yesterday would have amounted to $640 by this time if it had been deposited in a savings bank, but folded up in a napkin it has hardly retained its face value.

—The anniversary exercises of the Rogers High School will occur on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The exercises will consist of recitations in the various branches of study, readings, declamations, and essays by the members of the graduating class. All interested are invited to attend these exercises. The recitations will commence at 10 o'clock A. M., on each day.

—We would call the attention of the readers of the NEWS to the advertisement of James H. Clarke, in another column. He proposes to sell off his entire stock at the branch store No. 2 Washington square at auction, commencing tomorrow evening, continuing thereafter every afternoon and evening until the whole is disposed of, after which the store will be restocked with new goods.

—Newport is likely to have a short visit from the First Light Infantry of Rhode Island. Boston and Oakland Beach will probably be equally favored. It is rumored that a number of their wealthy friends are very anxious that the organization should go to Europe, and are willing to contribute liberally toward the expense. One Boston gentleman has offered to give five thousand dollars to that end.

—By request of several prominent citizens of Newport Prof. Herrmann will spend a few days among us, and at the same time he will delight the public by a few entertainments at the Opera House. He has won the reputation of being the greatest prestidigitateur who has been here within the memory at least of the younger generation of amusement lovers. He is marvellously expert, skillful, and ingenious in his performances, and has besides, such a fund of humor, and such an aptness at repartee, as to keep his audience in a continual roar of laughter.

A POLICE EXCURSION.—It may have puzzled some people to know how the police force of a city can ever be spared to go off on an excursion, and some may have wondered how Providence was to get along yesterday during the absence of the Richard Borden and her passengers. The Providence police solved the matter to the entire satisfaction of everybody except the people of Newport by taking the roughs along with them and while Providence was left unprotected she was also left without need of protection. Music, which hath power to soothe a savage was necessary with such a precious lot of passengers as the Richard Borden carried and the American band furnished an excellent article and the listeners were intoxicated with delight or something else.

JUSTICE COURT.

FRIDAY, July 17th.—William J. Bennett and John Murphy were arraigned upon a complaint for breaking and entering, in the night time, the store of Carl Hertgen, on the 12th instant, and stealing therefrom a lot of coin and a box of cigars, and after hearing the testimony for the prosecution, from which the guilt of one of the accused was made pretty clear, and the offence being burglarious and of course beyond the jurisdiction of a justice court for final sentence, Murphy, after having been allowed to make such explanatory statements as they deemed best, (Bennett setting up an alibi), was adjudged to be probably guilty and was required to find sureties in the sum of five hundred dollars for his appearance for trial on the third Monday of September next before the supreme court, while Bennett was discharged as not guilty under this complaint.

The same respondents were then arraigned upon a complaint for stealing clothing to the amount of sixty two dollars from Solomon Walker, and in this case as in the other, the stolen property having been found upon the alleged thieves, and other corroborating testimony of guilt having satisfied the court that Bennett was the guilty man in this case, discharged Murphy, and held Bennett in the sum of five hundred dollars for his appearance before the supreme court in September next.

The respondents are both hard looking customers and evidently this is not their first involuntary appearance before a court of justice. Murphy was concerned last Fall in robbing a shoe store in St. Louis, when he managed to escape although two of his pals were taken and convicted. Each having been held in the meshes of the law on one or other of the above named complaints, they will both stand a good chance of having their cases enquired into by the grand jury of this county in September next.

NEW YORK ITEMS.

More indictments are reported to have been found against Gardner and Charlick by the grand jury.

The stock exchange has contributed $192 to the poor children's excursion fund, which now amounts to $4816.

Mayor Havemeyer says he will have his answer to the charges against him ready for the governor the last of this week.

Dr. McDonald, of Blackwell's Island, certifies that Tweed is suffering from vertigo, and liable to apoplexy from want of fresh air and exercise, and he is to be removed to more roomy quarters in the prison.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of James McCarthy, first mate of the American ship Cultivator, on the charge of shooting and killing John Wright one of the crew, when one day out from San Francisco for Europe. McCarthy and several witnesses are expected daily on the steamer Colima, having been sent here for trial by the American consul at Brussels.

The investigation into the insanity of Lizzie L. King, alias Kate Stoddard, was denied Wednesday in the court of sessions, Brooklyn. An affidavit was read by her counsel of Dr. Norton Folsom, of the Taunton (Mass.) insane asylum, stating that the prisoner had been confined there some time, and that her conduct was very violent when in the institution. Kate then entered into a colloquy with Judge Moore, and hoped to have a trial to remove the erroneous impressions of her guilt on the charge of homicide from the minds of the public. She was then removed, and was sent to the asylum Thursday.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

It is reported that Mr. Moran declines to be Third Assistant Secretary of State.

Superintendent Bangs, of the railway postal service, started for Chicago Wednesday evening to organize the post office of that city.

A reduction in the steamboat inspection boards in various cities of the United States will soon be made by the supervising inspector-general.

Intelligence received at the War Department and Indian bureau betokens lively times for our troops with the Indians along the border this Summer.

Washington keeps up a well-earned reputation in the divorce line. Five were granted Wednesday and only one refused. This makes about twenty granted within the last ten days or two weeks.

A little war between Gen Spinner and the Secretary of the Treasury has just been inaugurated. The Secretary claims the right to make appointments in Spinner's office, which the latter denies vehemently. The end is not yet. The general is touchy, doesn't care much for his office, anyhow, and may resign if his wishes are not needed to.

The appropriation of $175,000 to pay railroads the amount due them for transportation of military supplies was so involved by an amendment in the form of a proviso as to render impossible the statement of accounts, required by the existing law to be made by the Treasury prior to the passage of an appropriation of this character to the credit of the railroads interested.

A PARISIAN MODEL.

A writer on "models" in Paris says, Presently the molde arrived a bright, handsome brunette of 19 or 20. There was a demonstration of welcome from the painters, the door was locked, and she proceeded in a business-like fashion to prepare for work. When ready she mounted a platform about two feet high, where she fell under a lofty broad side-light. Two of the more advanced painters, who acted as a committee of arrangements, placed her in a position. This being the first pose, there was discussion about the posture to be assumed. Several times the two placed her and then retired a few yards to observe the effect, remarking as they did so: "Don't hold the arm so stiff," "Incline the head a trifle," and what not, accompanied with painters' pantomime, such as slowly sawing the head, shutting out portions with the intercepted hand, and massing the effects with half-closed eyes. The fourth trial proved to be a success, at which a phrase of general satisfaction was expressed. The two enjoining her not to budge, with the others, got behind their easels and went to work, some taking off their coats. One modeled in clay; with this exception all held crayons.

All the faces turned earnestly toward the canvas, the clay, and the model, and not a sign of dawdling or frivolity was to be seen. To them the women was a statue. Nothing was recognized here but art: it took the form of worship, and he who looked with other eyes than those of an artist was accounted sacrilegious. Thus the public opinion of the atelier made them all artists, and if the art feeling was not possessed it was assumed. After a time the silence was broken by her requesting some one to heat up the stove, as she was cold, which brought out one or two ejaculations and a murmur that we were already in the interior of Africa, to which she retorted that they would not think so if they were in her place. Another long silence was interrupted by her asking the time, at which one of the elders remarked: "Not yet, mademoiselle."

Again in a few minutes she said she was sure the time must be up. "It is, my child," answered the same elder; "repose yourself." She left the stand, drew a mantle about her, and took a seat by the stove with a sigh of relief. She was obliged to look out for herself in regard to the time of posing, as the painters were usually so absorbed as to forget it. The repose of the model brought with it a contrast to the previous silence. There was a general buzz and lighting of pipes and cigarettes. Two or three compliments were addressed to the model for her excellent posing; native gallantry cropped out, and two or three told her she was an angel or a duchess, to which she replied in that spirit of raillery with which these things were uttered. This was an illustration of French character—fond of work and equally fond of play.

LORD THURLOW DEFENDS HIMSELF.

As speaker of the House of Lords, Thurlow was distinguished for the dignity with which he enforced the rules of debate. Upon one occasion he called the duke of Grafton to order, who, incensed at the interruption, insolently reproached the chancellor with his plebeian origin and recent admission into the peerage. Previous to this time Thurlow had spoken so frequently that he was listened to by the House with visible impatience. When the duke had concluded his speech, Thurlow rose from the woolsack, and advanced slowly to the place from whence the chancellor generally addresses the House; then fixing upon the duke the look of Jove when he grasps the thunder, "I am amazed," he said, in a level tone of voice, "at the attack which the noble lord has made upon me. Yes, my lords," considerably raising his voice, "I am amazed at his grace's speech. The noble duke cannot look before him, behind him, or on either side of him, without seeing some noble peer who owes his seat in this House to his successful exertions in the profession to which I belong. Does he not feel that it is as honorable to owe it to those as to being the accident of an accident? To all these noble lords the language of the noble duke is as applicable and as insulting as it is to myself. But I do not fear to meet it single and alone. No one venerates the peerage more than I do; but, my lords, I must say the peerage solicited me, not I the peerage. Nay more, I can say, and I will say, that as a peer of Parliament, as a Speaker of this right honorable House, as keeper of the great seal, as guardian of his majesty's conscience, as lord high chancellor of England, nay even in that character alone in which the duke would think it an affront to be considered, but which none can deny me;—as a man,—I am at this moment as respectable—I beg leave to add—I am at this moment as much respected—as the proudest peer I now look down upon." "The effect of this speech," says Mr. Butler, "both within the walls of Parliament and without them, was prodigious. It gave Lord Thurlow an ascendancy in the House which no other chancellor had ever possessed; it invested him in public opinion with a character of independence and honor; and this, although he was ever on the popular side of politics, made him always popular with the people."—[Memories of Westminster Hall.

Nervous Diseases.

The nervous system exercises a powerful influence over the digestion, secretion, nutrition, absorbtion, and the circulation of the blood, and its purpose seems to be to bind together the machinery of the body, and to combine and harmonize the action of its several parts. Diseases of the nerves are more numerous and addictive now than at any former period—a result due to the luxurious habits of the age, and to the excitement which the struggle for wealth and position kindles and inflames. Almost every individual one meets in society, of either sex, is troubled with some nervous affection or other. Among the various medicinal agents recommended by the profession or recognized by the general public as nervines, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters occupies the foremost place. Physicians of eminence concede to it very extraordinary tonic properties, and its popularity as an invigorant with all classes of the community is indicated by a demand for the article which has distanced competition, and is still continually increasing. Men of business, politicians, authors, lawyers, inventors speculators,—in short, all who are engaged in exciting pursuits, will find this healthful alterative and restorative the most restful cordial for the brain and the overtasked nervous system that the combined resources of botany and chemistry have yet given to the world. It is agreeable to the taste, promotes digestion, regulates the liver and the bowels, depurates the blood, and is the most helpful elixir in cases of severe mental despondency that ever cheered the depressed spirits of man or woman.

PIMPLES AND HUMORS ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the VEGETINE is the great remedy as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleansesand purifies the blood, thereby causing humors of all kinds to disappear.

Newport Daily News.

FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1874.

GENERAL NEWS.

WASHINGTON.

A Counterfeit $500 Note.

WASHINGTON, July 16.

The $600 counterfeit recently discovered at the Treasurer's office, was a counterfeit of the United States note of that denomination. Only two such notes have thus far been discovered, the first a year ago. There are no counterfeits on national bank notes of that denomination.

The Trouble of Gen. Spinner.

Concerning the rumored complication between Gen. Spinner and the Treasury Department, it can be stated that he has written a letter to the President, containing his views relative to the management of his bureau. It is known that the general has uniformly taken ground that as he is pecuniarily responsible for its transactions and has given heavy bonds, the appointment of his subordinates should be controlled by himself irrespective of the application of the civil service rules to his bureau.

A Colored Collector of Taxes.

Lewis Clephane, Collector of Taxes for the District of Columbia, having resigned, the commissioners today appointed to that position, John R. Cook, colored, who for several years past had held the office of register.

The Treasury Exhibit.

Treasury balances: Currency, $12,745,083, special deposits of legal tenders for the redemption of certificates of deposit, $60,125,517, coin, $70,628,517, including coin certificates, $23,300,700, outstanding legal tenders, $382,000,000.

NEW YORK ITEMS.

The Committee know the Worst of the Tilton-Beecher Madness.—Mr Beecher to come out like refined Gold.

NEW YORK, July 16.

The Brooklyn Eagle says the Beecher investigating committee had another meeting last night, the result of which is carefully kept secret. Enough, however, leaked out to warrant the assertion that the crisis of the Beecher-Tilton scandal has been reached. The case of Mr. Beecher is fully known to the committee, and the load of anxiety with which his friends have been burdened need no longer be borne. The so-called very worst is known; that it is nothing but what an explanation and the apology of one gentleman to another gentleman would fully atone for may be safely inferred. Mr. Beecher will come out of the furnace of affliction in which he has been sorely tried with a public estimate of his private character like gold many times refined.

Tilton's Divorce Proceedings Doubted.

A rumor that Theodore Tilton had begun proceedings in divorce against his wife and that these had been placed in the hands of Judge Morse caused a reporter to call on the latter gentleman. The Judge disavowed any knowledge of the proceedings, and stated that he did not believe such action was contemplated by Mr. Tilton.

Mrs. Tilton's Friend Interviewed.

The Brooklyn Union contains an interview with Mrs. Overton, with whom Mrs. Tilton has been stopping, from which the following is an extract:

Reporter—I understand from a statement in the morning papers that Mrs. Tilton will return to her old home in Livingstone street, and that Mr. Tilton will leave it to her and her family.

Mrs. Overton—Oh, you may be certain that family matters will be arranged without any difficulty on either side. Mr. Tilton is a man of affectionate, generous nature. He, I believe, suffers intensely now. We have not seen him since Saturday, when Mrs. Tilton came to our house, but you may rest assured he has not had vindictive feelings towards his wife. I suppose when their family matters come to be arranged, the world must know of them, but the world will find there was no ill-will on either side.

Poor Tilton again on the Interviewer's Rack.

The Brooklyn Argus publishes an interview with Mr. Tilton, in which he denies having said to anybody that he would make a revelation in his statement that will drive Mr. Beecher from the ministry. He also said: "I ask for no compromise or concealment. I stand alone. Alone, indeed! I have been swayed by feelings of charity, but, driven to it, I rest on the truth."

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Regatta Agony Postponed.

SARATOGA, July 10.

Over 20,000 people assembled at the lake today to witness the university race, and after sweltering for hours in the sun, and being obliged to do without anything to eat; as at the two hotels there were not supplies for a one hundredth part of the demand, the people were told about 7 p. m. that the race was postponed till tomorrow afternoon. At least 2,000 people were obliged to walk to the village, four miles distant, owing to a lack of conveyances. The cause of the postponement was rough water.

The collegiate ball has been postponed until after the regatta takes place.

The Rye Beach Cable.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. July 16.

The telegraph cable vessels Faraday and Ambassador finished their work off this harbor last night and returned to Rye Beach this morning with the visiting party, and both ships have sailed for Nova Scotia.

A Proposition to shut the Fall River Mills.

FALL RIVER, July 16.

A meeting of the manufacturers of this city was held this afternoon to discuss the question of shutting down the mills next month or for a portion thereof. The representatives of a few of the mills objected decidedly to stopping their mills under the present condition of affairs, and after a somewhat extended discussion the question was indefinately postponed. Two of the mills, however, are obliged to stop for a week or more on account of the regular annual repairs.

Sad Drowning Accident.

Thomas Delehanty, aged fifteen, son of Joseph Delahantey, living on Barberry Hill, in this city, was drowned this evening. He was in bathing and dove from a raft and struck his head against something and did not rise to the surface. His body was recovered twenty minutes afterward.

The Ohio Republicans.

COLUMBUS, O., July 16.

The Republican state central committee and a number of prominent Republicans from the various portions of the state met today for consultation. Senator Sherman and Congressmen Garfield, Foster, Sherwood, Bundy, Lawrence and ex-Governor Noyes were among those present and made short speeches favoring an earnest, active campaign. The point of the speeches was that the issues to be presented were purely national, and as there was no legislature to elect this Fall the question of temperance could not legitimately come into the canvass. The second of September was fixed as the time for the state convention.

The Case of Jay Cooke & Co.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.

Before Register Mason, today, the examination of the affairs of Jay Cooke & Co., bankrupts, by the counsel for the creditors, was begun. Jay Cooke was first examined. He referred the counsel to the books of the firm for most of the information they desired. Mr. Fahnestock, senior partner of the firm, President, in New York, said at the time of the suspension of the firm, Jay Cooke & Co., were indebted to Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. The latter firm held no collateral to secure this indebtedness. Jay Cooke & Co. were solvent on September 17th and insolvent on September 18th, caused by their inability to raise funds to meet demands. The chief cause was advances made to the Northern Pacific Railroad. All these advances were made by advice of Jay Cooke; witness frequently objected to this class of investments; no proposition was ever made by the firm to exchange Northern Pacific Railroad bonds for real estate. The Philadelphia house was largely indebted to the New York house, witness also remonstrated against this. All the houses stopped simultaneously. The examination will be resumed Friday.

Attempt to Wreck and Rob a Train.

UTICA, July 15.

A dispatch to the Utica Herald from Fort Plain says an attempt was made this morning to wreck and rob a car of the New York Central Railway. Paymaster Reed left Albany with some $59,000 and a force of six men. The would-be robbers had placed obstructions on the track at a secluded place, well chosen for such crime, near a piece of woods. The work train came along and after removing the obstructions, left a man secreted to watch the track. He soon saw two men come out of the bushes and place a huge tie across the up track. He started for them and they ran. The superintendent was soon on the spot, and the pay car stopped, and the men gave chase, but failed to catch the rascals.

Boldness of Hostile Indians in Wyoming.—The Plague of Grasshoppers.

OMAHA, July 16.

An official telegram from Fort Fred Steele, Wyoming, today, says twenty Indians came within half a mile of the fort at 7 o'clock this morning and took stock belonging to citizens.

A telegram from Fort Fetterman, Wyoming, says a six days scout in the vicinity of Laramie Peak found no sign of Indians.

Immense clouds of grasshoppers are reported to have alighted yesterday near Columbus, Nebraska, and are doing some damage. They are rapidly moving eastward.

OBITUARY RESOLUTIONS.

AT the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Redwood Library and Athenæum held July 13th, 1874, the following Resolutions offered by Hon. Francis Brinley, were unanimously passed:

FORASMUCH, it has pleased Almighty God, in his wise Providence, to take out of this world the soul of our deceased brother, John Carter Brown, it is

RESOLVED, That although his years of physical and mental vigor were prolonged beyond the Scriptural limit of efficient human life, his death is keenly lamented by the members and directors of the Redwood Library and Athenæum, who will hereafter miss the dignified presence, and safe judgment of him, who for years, had been a most faithful coadjutor in the management of this cherished and ancient institution.

RESOLVED, That we recognize in the serene career of our departed friend, the union of the exactness of a successful man of affairs, with the refined taste and wide culture of an unpretending student, whose appreciation of the charms and importance of liberal learning was signalized by the laborious accumulation of a library of unsurpassed completeness in regard to the history of the American continent;—by his filial contributions to the resources of his Alma Mater, the the distinguished University, which bears his honored family name, and by the frequent supplies of numerous, costly and rare volumes to the attraction of this organization, of which he was a sincere friend and influential member, and whose merit we shall ever hold in grateful remembrance.

RESOLVED, That a copy of these Resolutions be transmitted to the family of the deceased, as an imperfect expression of our sympathy in their bereavement.

A true copy from the record,

BENJ. H. RHOADES,
Secretary,

jy13 NEWPORT, R. I.

Newport Daily News.

FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1874.

Rev. Dr. Hamlin, president of Robert college, Constantinople, is writing some articles for the Observer on the present condition of Mohammedanism at the East. He says: "We hear of late many bold and positive assertions, made from various sources, sometimes boastfully made to the discredit of Christianity (as though the mere fact of progress could of itself prove or disprove anything) that Mohammedanism is making more rapid advances than Christianity; that Mohammedan missionaries are more successful than Christian missionaries. It is doubtless true that Islam is gaining in some places and losing in others. In the great Ottoman empire I am sure Islam is on its wane. The crescent is no longer its true symbol. It no longer terrifies the nations. It no longer makes forced conversions. As a political power, all will acknowledge its day is past and gone. Religious liberty is the rule of the Ottoman administration. This of itself is an invitation to the Islamite to think, to read and compare. Religious knowledge is increasing all over the empire. The Christian Scriptures are sought and read to a degree never dreamed of before. If you introduce religious topics in conversation, they will be treated in a calm and reasonable manner—not with scorn or the haughty silence of former years. This is undeniably a great change, whatever may be its final results. It is at least a softening down of the bigotry and fanaticism of the faith. Islam must now lay aside both the chibouk and the sword, and reason and talk and write, in this reading, talking, writing age. It manifests, however, nothing of the great element of hope. It does not hold out to itself any great future, but largely accepts the popular impression that Christianity is to prevail." The other side of the picture, the wonderful and continuing growth of the followers of the prophet, in India and elsewhere, is reserved for explanation in another paper.

CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part, leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
